Drugs found on TTC bus involved in fatal crash

Driver in fatal crash accused of having drugs stashed on bus ◐ Police and Crown prosecutors to discuss laying charges

The driver of the TTC bus that crashed Tuesday had a small quantity of drugs in his possession, police investigators believe, and refused a TTC drug test after the incident, which left one passenger dead and 13 injured.

Police Det. Const. Carl Andersen said officers at the scene did not believe that the driver, 52-year-old William Ainsworth, was intoxicated. They did not have cause to conduct their own drug test, he said, and only found the "substance," which they "believe might be marijuana," when conducting an inventory of the bus seven hours later.

"We are concerned he may have smoked up, but there wasn't any obvious signs of the effects of marijuana at the time of the investigation," Andersen said in an interview.

Ainsworth has been fired, the TTC said in a statement. A source close to the TTC said he had worked there for about 10 years and had been commended for his performance.

Police are meeting with prosecutors next week to discuss possible charges related to the crash.

The crash occurred at about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday. It killed Toronto woman Jadranka Petrova, 43.

Petrova had been seated on the left side of the raised platform behind the bus's rear doors. She died at the scene.

Board nixes promotions for G20 cops

The Toronto police board has taken the unprecedented step of refusing to promote nine officers who were disciplined for removing their name tags during G20 demonstrations.

Chief Bill Blair recommended those promotions and the civilian oversight board's refusal to agree suggests cracks in what has historically been a close relationship.

On Tuesday, the police association filed a grievance. If the arbitrator sides with the police board, it will make clear a currently gray area regarding the board's powers to refuse promotions.

In the past, the board has passively pushed through reclassification recommendations from the chief, including for officers who have unbecoming conduct on their records.

That practice has been a sore spot for years among some on the board, who feel uneasy about giving more authority to officers they believe have shown questionable judgment and character.

Tensions on the police board first surfaced after Mayor Rob Ford appointed Coun. Michael Thompson as its vice-chair. Thompson and Blair have quietly clashed on a number of issues. Most recently, on Wednesday Thompson said he was "extremely disappointed" that Blair spoke out about potential layoffs.

Elderly seek culture comforts

Seniors wait up to nine years for Chinese nursing homes

Kwan Pak hopes she'll live long enough to secure a bed at a Chinese-run nursing home in the city — and she has every reason to be worried.

Pak, 84, had a stroke in 1998 and has since been looked after by her husband, who is 89. The couple is among 5,000 Greater Toronto Chinese seniors awaiting a culturally appropriate nursing home bed.

The wait time for the Yee Hong and Mon Sheong geriatric centres has doubled to nine years since 2005 — well above the 106-day Ontario average. It is expected to grow to 15 years by 2014, warned Dr. Joseph Wong, Yee Hong's founder.

On Thursday, the two leading Chinese long-term care facilities launched a campaign demanding the province license 500 new beds for the 50,000 Chinese Canadians over age 65 in Markham and Scarborough.

"Culturally appropriate care, language and food help seniors adapt to a new life at a long-term care facility."
TIM KWAN, CHAIR OF MON SHEONG

Yee Hong and Mon Sheong have secured the sites — and capital funds — but the province has been reluctant to grant the wish because of the required subsidies to the beds, Wong said.

"This situation is painful and not tolerable," said Wong, whose four current facilities have 805 residents.

While 500 new beds are insufficient, Tim Kwan, Mon Sheong's chair, said it helps. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Belak's dad at 'total loss' over death

Former Maple Leaf enforcer did not appear to be depressed in days before apparent suicide, dad says

Wade Belak's father said the former Maple Leaf enforcer showed no signs of depression before taking his own life Wednesday in a downtown Toronto hotel.

Lionel Aadland, who got divorced from Belak's mother when their sons were very young, told the National Post he was "at a total loss" to explain his son's suicide.

"It's disappointing that he would choose that option, and totally surprising," said Aadland, a retired policeman who lives in Salmon Arm, B.C. "We, as a family, didn't — maybe naively — see anything. We're somewhat distanced by miles from them, but we talk, and we think we're a good, tight family. We just didn't see any signs."

Aadland also told the Post they are trying their best to cope with the tragedy.

"I don't know if we'll ever know why," said Aadland. "I also know we're not unique. Other people go through this very same situation, and our loss and our feelings are no worse than what anybody else has experienced.

"I also know that we can survive it … you get through it, somehow, and that's what we'll do."

- Belak leaves behind wife Jennifer and daughters Andie and Alex. The family will hold a private funeral service in Nashville on Sunday.
- "Wade was a big man with an even bigger heart," Jennifer Belak said in a statement. "He was a deeply devoted father and husband, a loyal friend and a well respected athlete."

Leaf played ball hockey with Belak, looked up to him

As youngsters, Leafs defenceman Luke Schenn and his brother Brayden, now of the Philadelphia Flyers, often played street hockey with Wade Belak back home at their Saskatchewan cottage.

"This was before even my brother and I were hockey players. We were just little kids looking up to him as an NHL player," Schenn, 21, said on Thursday after participating in a Leafs unofficial workout at the MasterCard Centre.

"He had a street hockey net on his driveway and he used to invite us to come shoot with him. He was the nicest guy. He'd bring us on his boat the odd time and throw a football around."

Schenn, a restricted free agent, was still reeling from the tragic news of Belak's death, a player he never played with but first encountered when he watched the Saskatoon Blades junior team play.

"I used to watch him growing up," said Schenn, who is practising with the Leafs while his agent negotiates a new contract.

"It's hard to see a guy like that go."

Speaking on behalf of his teammates, Schenn expressed his sadness for Belak's family. He also said the hockey community has lost "a great guy."

The young Leaf rearguard learned of Belak's death while on the golf course with several of his teammates.

"You stop right away and it hits you … This is the third guy this summer," Schenn said. "It's hard to grasp. It's tough."

NHL pledges program review

The NHL and NHL Players' Association are pledging to look for answers in the wake of the league's third player death in a matter of months.

With a feeling of disbelief being felt throughout the hockey world after Wade Belak's body was found in a downtown hotel and condo building, the league and its players' union indicated Thursday that a review would be conducted on their substance abuse and behavioural health program.

Belak's death came as the hockey community is still reeling from the recent deaths of New York Rangers forward Derek Boogaard and Winnipeg Jets forward Rick Rypien.

The string of incidents has raised uncomfortable questions about a possible link between the role each man played and his untimely death.

Paul Bissonnette, an enforcer with the Phoenix Coyotes, understands why some people have made that connection. He has first-hand experience of how tough the job can be.

"Just playing that very limited role, in and out of the lineup, you feel worthless," said Bissonnette. "I could see where that would probably wear on guys along with the fighting and getting hit in the head constantly."

No record-breaking temps this fall

Seasonally average fall expected this year, meteorologist says Still a few nice days left with summer temperatures

PHOEBE HO
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

After a scorching summer, Torontonians may be relieved to know we most likely won't be breaking any weather-related records this fall.

The Weather Network's meteorologist Martin Belanger says a typical fall is to be expected this year in terms of temperature and precipitation.

"We'll see some variable conditions, so a few days of warmer weather followed by colder weather," said Belanger.

"But overall, I think we should be close to those seasonal averages this fall."

The fluctuating temperatures are the result of a battle between the cold air coming from Northern Canada and the warm air across the U.S., says Belanger, and they will likely persist as we transition into winter throughout the next couple months.

For those relishing the hot summer days, there's still time to enjoy.

"There will be a few nice days with seasonal temperatures and maybe even some leftovers of summery conditions as well, especially in September," said Belanger. "I don't see an earlier fall for us in Toronto at this point."

Prediction

- But the big question is, what conditions should we be expecting come this winter?
- "It's too early to tell, but there is some indication that the water temperature in the Pacific Ocean could be getting cooler than average, so we may see the La Niña cycle this year," said Belanger. "If that happens, we could see impacts here in Canada."

Anesthesiologist should lose licence, hearing told

An anesthesiologist who altered the medical charts of a liposuction patient after she died should lose his medical licence, a penalty hearing has been told.

Dr. Bruce Liberman removed his resuscitation note from patient Krystra Stryland's medical chart the day she died and replaced it with another dated the following day, which downplayed her plummeting vital signs.

Liberman cannot be remediated and should have his licence pulled, Lisa Spiegel, counsel for the College of Physicians and Surgeons, argued Thursday.

A discipline committee of the regulatory body ruled earlier this year that he committed acts of professional misconduct by removing his note and replacing it with a "misleading" one.

Stryland, a 32-year-old mother, died on Sept. 20, 2007, after undergoing a liposuction procedure at the Toronto Cosmetic Clinic. Earlier this week, lawyers for the college argued that Dr. Behnaz Yazdanfar, the doctor who performed the surgery, should also be stripped of her licence.

A forensic document examiner was called upon by the college to investigate whether changes were made to Stryland's medical chart. He found evidence of the missing note in the form of indentations of words on the pages below where it should have been in the chart. They were consistent with Liberman's handwriting.

The note he replaced it with said Stryland's blood loss was not excessive. But at the hospital where she was subsequently taken, she was found to have lost so much blood that her hemoglobin level was 10 times lower than the critical level, leaving her with no capacity to get oxygen to her vital organs.

CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Dr. Bruce Liberman

Licence

- In arguing for Liberman's licence to be revoked, Spiegel said he was incompetent and responsible for "gross medical mismanagement" in his post-operative care of Stryland.
- The discipline committee found he failed to aggressively treat her when she went into shock and to call 911 when she started crashing.

Grits vow new summer program

Ontario's Liberals are promising a voluntary summer program to help kids in Grade 1 through Grade 3 get ready for the school year, the latest in a series of education announcements in the week leading up to the start of the election campaign.

The two-week program will cost an additional $9 million and be available in all school boards but is really meant to help students struggling with math, reading and writing stay engaged throughout the summer.

The Progressive Conservatives and New Democrats have been much more focused on pocketbook issues, but Education Minister Leona Dombrowsky said Wednesday the Liberal promises are no different.

Probe investigating businessman who paid high-end prostitute to attend prime minister's home for wild parties

Italian police arrested a businessman Thursday on charges of allegedly extorting money from Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi to ensure the man's co-operation in a probe over recruiting prostitutes to attend wild parties at Berlusconi's home.

Giampaolo Tarantini and his wife Angela Devenuto were picked up in Rome on Thursday, and a third suspect is being sought. Berlusconi is not under investigation in this case.

Tarantini has admitted he paid a high-end prostitute, Patrizia D'Addario, and other women to attend parties at Berlusconi's residences, but insists the prime minister didn't know. Tarantini is currently under investigation in Bari for allegedly aiding and abetting prostitution.

"I didn't do anything illegal, I limited myself to helping a desperate man without asking for anything in exchange. That's how I'm made."
ITALIAN PM SILVIO BERLUSCONI

Naples prosecutor Francesco Greco said Berlusconi had paid the Tarantini family's legal and housing costs, with the end result aimed at securing Tarantini's co-operation in the Bari prostitution investigation.

In a telephone interview with The Associated Press in Rome, Greco alleged that the payment was aimed at ensuring that Tarantini enters a plea bargain rather than letting the case go to trial. Such a move would limit the publication of possibly embarrassing telephone intercepts concerning the women who went to Berlusconi's parties.

Panorama news magazine, which broke news of the investigation last week, said Tarantini received 500,000 euros ($722,000) and subsequent monthly payments from the premier. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sri Lanka imposes new laws for terrorism

ERANGA JAYAWARDENA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Sri Lankan President Mahinda Rajapaksa approved four regulations under the Prevention of Terrorism Act.

Sri Lanka will still detain hundreds of terror suspects and outlaw the defeated rebel Tamil Tiger group despite lifting wartime emergency laws, an official said Thursday.

An ethnic Tamil lawmaker condemned the moves as undemocratic and said the anti-terrorism law the government is expanding is too restrictive and should be abolished.

The emergency laws that have curbed civil and political liberties for most of the past 30 years lapsed Tuesday after the government did not renew them.

President Mahinda Rajapaksa said the laws were no longer needed, more than two years after Sri Lanka's deadly civil war ended and under international pressure to lift them.

But Rajapaksa approved four regulations under the powerful Prevention of Terrorism Act that became effective Tuesday on a temporary basis, Attorney General Mohan Peiris said. The government will bring them to lawmakers to make them permanent law.

Peiris did not say how long the suspects in custody will be detained. Tamil lawmakers say there are about 900 such detainees.

The government is also holding about 3,000 ex-rebels in rehabilitation centres. About 11,000 Tamil rebels surrendered at the end of the war and nearly 8,000 have been freed after rehabilitation, the military says. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New rules

- The first two regulations will continue to ban the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam and the Tamil Rehabilitation Organization, which received donor funds to rehabilitate rebel-controlled areas.
- The other two regulations will allow the government to continue to hold rebel suspects and rehabilitate the rebels who have surrendered.

Wiki's new leak: A sex outrage

UN troops seduced underage Ivory Coast girls with food, says whistleblower Parents encouraged it

United Nations peacekeepers in Ivory Coast enticed underage girls to exchange sex for food, it's alleged.

The charge is made in a United States Embassy cable just released by WikiLeaks, the whistle-blowing website.

The cable written in January, 2010, focuses on the behaviour of Beninese peacekeepers stationed in the western town of Toulepleu, an area that has been at the crosshairs of the nation's 10-year-long conflict.

A random poll of 10 underage girls in Toulepleu by aid group Save The Children U.K. in 2009 found that eight performed sexual acts for Benin peacekeepers on a regular basis to secure their basic needs.

"Eight of the 10 said they had ongoing sexual relationships with Beninese soldiers in exchange for food or lodging," a diplomat wrote in the cable.

United Nations spokesperson Michel Bonnardeaux confirmed that in April, 16 Beninese peacekeepers were repatriated to Benin and are barred from serving in the UN following a yearlong investigation.

"We see it as a command and control problem," said Bonnardeaux who spoke by telephone from New York.

Of the 16 peacekeepers, 10 were commanders and the rest were soldiers.

The commanders, he said, "failed to maintain an environment that prevents sexual exploitation and abuse."

The cable released by WikiLeaks said parents were encouraging their daughters to sleep with the peacekeepers so they would provide for them.

A vile trade?

- Sexual misconduct by UN troops has been reported in a number of countries including Congo, Cambodia and Haiti.
- In 2007, a 730-strong battalion of peacekeepers from Morocco was asked to suspend its activities in the northern Ivorian city of Bouake after the UN received allegations of sexual misconduct involving local girls.
- A Save the Children report also said peacekeepers traded food as well as mobile phones for sex in Ivory Coast.

Libya. Hunting for Gadhafi

The guns fall silent ... for prayers

Rebels hunting the top officials in Moammar Gadhafi's ousted regime say they have captured his foreign minister. But Gadhafi himself, in a defiant audio message from his hiding place, said loyalist tribes are armed and preparing for battle. Meanwhile, Canada has lifted economic sanctions against Libya, allowing Canadian firms to do business there again.

Holy cow! Bovine back after three months on the lam

After three months on the run, a fugitive named Yvonne has turned herself in.

Even cows get lonely, officials said.

Yvonne, a brown dairy cow, escaped from a Bavarian farm and hid in forests. She was involved in a near-collision with a police car, and officials labelled her a public danger.

But now she has shown up on her farm in the Müehldorf area, near the Austrian border.

The six-year-old cow "apparently got tired of the loneliness," the local council said, adding she jumped over a fence to join her fellow bovines.

Her identity was confirmed by her ear tag.

Yvonne is now grazing with four calves and appears "healthy and calm," the council said.

The report on the Vancouver riots notes that communication with the crowd is considered crucial to ensure police can encourage people to move on before the tear gas starts to fly.

But the report found the batteries on the Vancouver police's loudspeaker hadn't been charged, meaning it could only work while attached to a police vehicle.

As for the RCMP, their loud hailer malfunctioned so the crowd was not warned that tear gas was coming.

"Communication was not used with this crowd until the situation was out of hand," the report notes. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Police dropped ball before puck dropped: Review

Review of Vancouver riot finds officials unprepared for rowdy crowds even before Stanley Cup final began

Police were in a state of confusion and had lost control of the massive crowd hours before the start of Vancouver's Stanley Cup Game 7 loss, says a report reviewing the June 15 riot.

The report paints a frightening picture of a crowd ballooning out of control up to three hours before the puck dropped, with thousands of people unexpectedly packing the city's downtown, many of them already fuelled with alcohol.

The independent review found the crowd was larger and arrived much earlier than city or police officials had anticipated and security efforts were overwhelmed, with one officer saying that some people who wanted to get away from the crushing crowd couldn't escape.

928 For the first time, the report also revealed the Vancouver Police Force had 446 police on the street for Game 7, though that number swelled to 928 by the time the riot was in full swing.

Instead of being in control, police were forced to react to numerous reports of barricades being breached, people climbing telephone poles and being forced against barricades in the hours leading up to the game.

"At 7:46, a Twitter user with the handle Marimo tweets: 'Get ready for a riot Vancouver.' Bottles fly toward the blank screen, a planned post-game segment is cancelled to encourage the crowd to leave," the report said.

The report's two authors found that co-operation among the Vancouver Police Department and the RCMP had improved significantly since the 1994 riot in Vancouver, but there were still problems.

It takes time for officers to change into riot gear, but the gear was stashed too far away from the problem areas and by the time the riot squad got there, the fires were already burning, the report said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ In one of the most popular pictures of the year, riot police walk the streets of Vancouver looking for looters as a couple kiss after riots broke out when the Canucks lost in Game 7 of the Stanley Cup Finals.

Cops erred, yet spared by report

The review was done by former Vancouver Olympic committee head John Furlong and Doug Keefe, a former deputy justice minister in Nova Scotia and the two conclude police and civic officials made mistakes, but they said they were unwilling to blame anyone other than the rioters.

They recommend the province give more powers to dampen the sale of alcohol for regional events, that a regional tactical squad made up of the RCMP, the Vancouver police and others should be formed to deal with such regional events and that a special court should be established to deal with people accused of rioting.

Super car race revs up cops

Thirteen vehicles stopped White Rock RCMP say not one of the drivers they stopped was over the age of 20

ARIANA KAKNEVICIUS

▶ This Lamborghini is one of 13 supercars nabbed by police.

An attempted street race on the Deas Island freeway in British Columbia sent 13 young drivers and their fancy cars to a fast but not so furious finish.

At approximately 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday, the RCMP received multiple reports of high-end vehicles driving at speeds up to 200 km/h southbound on Highway 99 from the Massey Tunnel.

The vehicles, which included a Ferrari, Maserati, Lamborghini, Mercedes, Audi and Nissan R Series, ended up with more skill in their make than the experience in their drivers, for it was not long before they were all caught.

Six of the 13 vehicles were stopped as they exited the freeway in Surrey, while the other seven were located and stopped by White Rock RCMP a short distance away. Witnesses reported that on several occasions, two vehicles would drive side by side and slow down to allow the other vehicles in advance of them to take off in a race.

Setting up a nice showroom at the impound lot, over $2 million worth of vehicles was impounded by police. Each driver will be charged with the drive without due consideration for others and receive a violation ticket with a specified penalty of $196, while also being responsible for towing and storage charges.

It seems understandable for the drivers to mistake the term "rush hour," seeing as very few of these drivers possessed a full Class 5 license.

Hudak takes on 'bloated' OPA

THE CANADIAN PRESS/AARON VINCENT ELKAIM

▶ Ontario PC Leader Tim Hudak claims the OPA has driven up hydro bills for families as it has grown into a bloated 253-person organization.

But some question whether eliminating Ontario's power authority would really save any money

PC leader Tim Hudak has reiterated his call to eliminate the Ontario Power Authority, calling it "bloated" and an example of "runaway waste."

But would wiping it out make a difference?

While the power authority has taken some recent flak from its regulator, industry insiders question whether slashing it will necessarily save any money.

The power authority, created by the Liberals after they were first elected in 2003, is responsible for overall planning of the electricity sector.

It is on the cusp of presenting an overall power system plan for scrutiny by the Ontario Energy Board.

But David Butters, who heads the Association of Power Producers of Ontario, said many of the tasks assigned to the power authority, such as system planning and procuring contracts, won't disappear.

Support staff on strike

Colleges say they've increased starting salaries to $59,000

Unionized support staff at Ontario's community colleges went on strike Thursday morning just days before students return for a new school year.

Members of the Ontario Public Service Employees Union rallied in front of George Brown College's St. James campus in downtown Toronto, waving signs and chanting as a few motorists honked in support.

Striking support staff also marched at Durham College campuses in Whitby and Oshawa.

The union represents about 8,000 cleaners, food service staff, registration officers and other workers at the province's 24 colleges.

Rod Bemister, chairman of the OPSEU bargaining committee, said he expects students to face delays getting on campus and accessing services once the fall semester begins Tuesday.

The colleges say they will continue to operate during the strike and have plans to help students move into residences this weekend and deal with any disruptions.

THE METRO LIST

NEIL MORTON
METRO

1 Wade Belak: Another NHL enforcer died this week — the third this summer — but no one saw this coming. Belak seemed like the happiest, funniest, most self-deprecating dude around. Everyone liked him. He lived in my old 'hood for a while and every time you saw him with his wife and daughters, he was smiling. That's what people will remember most about the big redhead from Saskatchewan. His big, permanent smile.

2 Calvin Locke: The singer/songwriter is about halfway through a 100 Day Tour across Canada to raise funds and build awareness for children's cancer charities. He doesn't have any gigs booked, but plays spontaneous gigs in random places out of his '87 Chevrolet Beauville van. Follow Locke's amazing journey on Twitter @calvinlocke or his website IPlayMusicForPeople.com.

3 Sebastian Bach & Irene: Bach's New Jersey home that was once featured on MTV Cribs was destroyed during Hurricane Irene. He said on his Facebook page, "I will always love New Jersey but now there is literally nothing left for me here except memories of a past life. Hello, Los Angeles. Hello, New Life." Uh, Sebastian, not to dissuade you, but have you heard that Cali gets the occasional earthquake?

4 Space Oddity Children's Book: Canadian illustrator Andrew Kolb has given modern love to a David Bowie song by creating a "concept book" for kids (it could also be an avant-garde coffee table book for adults) based on his classic space epic, Space Oddity. It's a really neat idea, imagining Bowie's song in visuals as Kolb does. The free download available at KolbIsNeat.com is temporarily removed due to legal rights around the song, but here's hoping Bowie's peeps give permission.

5 Prof Quits Over Parking Spot: Dalhousie University prof Dan Middlemiss quit his job in frustration at the Halifax school after 30 years of teaching because of a severe shortage of parking spaces, a problem that has apparently been ongoing. I once wrote an article for my high school newspaper on my school's parking problems called The Pain of Parking At Adam Scott. But my parents didn't let me quit being a student.

6 iPad Made Of Wood: A woman in South Carolina purchased an iPad from two men in a McDonald's parking lot at a discounted rate. When she later opened the FedEx box it was in, she discovered it was just a block of wood with an Apple logo painted on it. Lesson learned: If you're approached in a McDonald's parking lot about buying an iPad, first make sure it's actually an iPad and not just a piece of wood painted black with an Apple logo.

7 Beyoncé's Twitter Record: Beyoncé's baby bump reveal at the end of her MTV Video Music Awards performance caused quite a stir on social media, breaking a new Twitter record with 8,868 tweets per second. Just wait till Kim Kardashian announces she's pregnant with Kris Humphries' baby to her 9 million followers on Twitter @kimkardashian.

Worth Mentioning

A visit by a Chinese leader meant to spread goodwill has instead left Hong Kong fuming.

In the two weeks since the visit, journalists have taken to the street in protest. Professors have taken out newspaper ads and students demanded the police chief resign.

The uproar is the latest clash of cultures between the authoritarian government in Beijing and Hong Kong, the former British colony returned to China's control but allowed to keep its capitalism, civil liberties and Western-style legal system.

Sparking the outrage were the security arrangements put on for Vice Premier Li Keqiang, a rising star in the Chinese leadership. Hong Kong's vigorous press complained they were kept far away from Li during the few events they were allowed to cover. While such tactics are standard procedure in mainland China, Chinese leaders are usually more careful not to alienate freewheeling Hong Kong.

The heavy-handed security has served to heighten concern in Hong Kong that its autonomy is being eroded by a mainland government.

WEIRD NEWS

Airport security is nothing to sniff at

What happens in Vegas stays in Vegas.

The U.S. attorney in Nevada says a German traveller was caught with more than a kilogram (2.2 pounds) of cocaine encased in more than 80 plastic pellets in his digestive system while trying to board a flight from Las Vegas to London.

Christopher Adiegwu was indicted Tuesday in federal court on a count of possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

Arraignment is set for Sept. 9.

He faces up to 40 years in prison and a $5 million US fine if convicted.

A local TV station reported that U.S. customs agents took note of the 43-year-old's suspicious behaviour at McCarran International Airport and thought he might be smuggling drugs.

KTNV-TV says after they searched him and didn't find anything, they took him to hospital for X-rays, when the pellets were revealed. He was given laxatives to pass the pellets.

Court records identify the man as a German citizen and native of Nigeria who was travelling under a visa waiver. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Fall into Oscar season

The serious films of fall are replacing the breezy flicks of summer
Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin weigh in on the Academy Award favourites

Richard: Mark, the silly season is pretty much over. That should mean an end to superhero stories, remakes, reboots and reimaginings and a beginning to Oscar season, right? It seems like the studios want to remind us of the balmy days of summer because it appears to me there's still lots of silly stuff on the way. When I see movies like Paranormal Activity 3 and Johnny English Reborn on the schedule it feels like summer in October.

MB: Richard, come on, the theatre owners need to pay their rent. And that means popcorn sales. Which means sequels, remakes and all the rest. But have no fear! Leonardo DiCaprio will be donning the fat suit to play J Edgar Hoover. What could be more original — and weird — than that, unless it was Bob Dylan starring in a Ben Johnson biopic. Surely there's some stuff coming up that has piqued your interest...

RC: Absolutely. Wedged in between remakes like The Thing are some Oscar contenders like Moneyball, Ides of March, and Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy but I think the movie I'm most excited to see is My Week with Marilyn. It's the story of Marilyn Monroe and Laurence Olivier and their tumultuous relationship as they made The Prince and the Showgirl. It's the kind of turning the camera on itself that Hollywood does really well, and I hear Michelle Williams absolutely nails the performance as Marilyn Monroe. What are you excited to see?

MB: That does sound good! I'm most excited about The Descendents, which pairs George Clooney and Alexander Payne, who directed Sideways, in a Hawaii location. I'm also jazzed about David Cronenberg's new movie, A Dangerous Method, which imagines a love triangle among Freud, Jung, and a hot female patient. Freud and Jung rarely are seen in the same movie, but Cronenberg's got a lot of clout these days. And let's not forget Puss In Boots. Puss has always been my favourite character in the Shrek franchise. Interestingly, these are all autumn releases. The Christmas slate looks kind of tepid to me. What do you think?

RC: Tepid! Not with A Very Harold & Kumar Christmas topping my Christmas list. Looks hilarious. On the other end of the scale is The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo. If anyone can improve on the originals, it's David Fincher.

MB: Yes, well, been there, done that. In Swedish, no less. At least there's no installment of the Focker franchise, and that may be the best Christmas present of all.

Jamie Bell gets animated

The Adventures of Tintin star talks technology and morphing into his childhood hero Says motion capture no different from live action acting

HEIDI PATALANO
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Jamie Bell can handle just about any challenge he can face as an actor. After all, his first role ever was that of the iconic 14 year old dancing savant in Billy Elliot, back in 2000. Earlier this year, he fenced his way through complex fight scenes in icy rivers for the Roman epic The Eagle. And this winter, he will take on one of the most beloved characters of all time using motion-capture technology for The Adventures of Tintin.

It would seem that acting with a green screen might be a difficult thing to do, but Bell is quick to dismiss this as any kind of challenge.

"An actor who enters into a motion capture film will bring to the table exactly what they bring to the table in a live action film," he says.

As a young child, the now 25-year-old Brit had loved the Tintin comics, which served as an inspiration to him.

Not many people get to see themselves animated into one of their favourite fictional characters from childhood and for Bell, seeing animated scenes from Tintin was a little unsettling.

"It's weird seeing my facial articulations, all that stuff, on another person's body with another person's face, but I think that's only weird to me," he says.

HANDOUT

▶ Actor Jamie Bell says it was strange seeing himself as a cartoon.

So long, uncanny valley!

"The uncanny valley thing, which obviously for us to talk about, is death," says Bell. "An uncanny valley is when the eyes are not engaged in an emotional way. Luckily, they've managed to fix that. I feel like people are going to forget what uncanny valley means and that's what we're looking for."

Get to know Kenny Wormald

Star of Footloose reboot talks about the pressure of stepping out in Kevin Bacon's dancing shoes

METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

HANDOUT

▶ Kenny Wormald is reprising Kevin Bacon's classic role in a modern take on Footloose.

Step aside, Kevin Bacon. Kenny Wormald is about to reinvent what the world thinks of when they hear the word Footloose. Well, actually he's not that brash. Wormald just wants to make sure he doesn't dishonour Bacon, who first inhabited the role of Ren MacCormack in 1984's original dance epic. As a seasoned dancer, the 26-year-old Boston native was excited to take on the role for its 2011 reboot, but is holding his breath for the film's release.

"Now that I've completed the film and I've seen it, the pressure is more on whether the world is going to accept me as that character," he says. "But I was a huge fan of the original and I knew how close to the heart people held this film. You just want to do good for them and do good by Kevin [Bacon]."

Since Wormald is relatively new on the Hollywood scene, we asked the former dancer for Justin Timberlake a few random questions in order to get to know him better.

What's the best advice you've ever been given?
You've got two ears and one mouth. You should listen twice as much as you talk. Marc Anthony told me that when I was dancing for J. Lo.

Did Justin Timberlake ever give you good advice?
No he never told me what to do but he showed me through action, how to handle being a megastar…just being a humble dude and keeping your family close and saying thank you to everyone. He is literally loved by everyone around him. That is something that I strive for and I believe that will help you stick around in this business for a long time.

If you had to eat at one fast food chain for the rest of your life, which one would it be?
In and Out Burger is kind of my go-to. It would suck for your whole life because it's only burgers but that being said, you don't feel that bad because it's good quality meat and it's real potatoes.

What reality show do you not usually admit to watching?
Project Runway. I've been around some girls before and it was on and I kind of got stuck watching it. I might've been by myself one time and changing the channel, it was on again and I watched it. Reality TV is kinda stupid for the most part, but they're actually talented.

Do you have a favourite word?
Lately we've been saying, "done." Like your friend is calling you saying, "hey bud you wanna go see a movie in 30?" "Done." …which is now becoming "dunzo."

At a party you'll find me…
Making the best playlist possible because usually when I go to my friend's house, the music sucks and I'm immediately trying to get on his iTunes.

Preview. Borrowed ideas

Borrowing from an old movie or remaking it entirely isn't always a bad thing. As a matter of fact, these formulas keep getting repeated because we keep paying good money to see them! Here are some plots that may seem vaguely familiar.

Straw Dogs
(Screen Gems) Sept. 16
This remake of the original 1971 film moves the setting to the Deep South, where a newly-relocated husband and wife (James Marsden and Kate Bosworth) are confronted by hostile locals.

Killer Elite
(Open Road Films) Sept. 23
When is Jason Statham ever NOT a skilled killer on a mission to knock off some dudes? This time, he's out to avenge his mentor, played by Robert De Niro.

Dream House
(Universal) Sept. 30
A family moves to a house that's haunted. See Don't Be Afraid of the Dark, Insidious and hundreds before them.

But this film boasts real-life lovebird stars, Daniel Craig and Rachel Weisz.

The Thing
(Universal) Oct. 7th
A prequel to the 1982 John Carpenter film of the same name.

Paranormal Activity 3
(Paramount) Oct. 21
Why are horror films always the easiest to make dozens of sequels for?

The Three Musketeers
(Summit) Oct. 21
This differentiates itself with improved special effects and Christoph Waltz.

The Muppets
(Disney) Nov. 23
There's nothing wrong with reviving the ever-charming muppets, this time with a script written by co-star Jason Segel.
HEIDI PATALANO

These aren't your average costume dramas. The period pieces most popular with today's audiences take place within the last 60 years, and these three will no doubt get some awards nods down the line.

The Rum Diary
(FilmDistrict) Oct. 28
Johnny Depp continues his lifelong homage to gonzo journalist Hunter S. Thompson in this movie based on the author's book by the same name.

J. Edgar
(Warner Bros.) Nov. 9
Break out your Oscar ballots now. With Clint Eastwood directing and Leonardo DiCaprio taking some time off from his best bud Martin Scorsese, this biopic is an easy front-runner on every must-see list.

Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy
(Focus Features) Nov. 18.
Set in Cold War era Britain in the 1970s, Gary Oldman stars as an intelligence expert on the deadly search for a Russian mole within MI6. HEIDI PATALANO

Does being "the movie of our time" always translate into big box office bucks?

The studios are hoping so with these thrillers that are all closely related, sometimes unnervingly so, to current events.

Contagion
(Warner Bros.) Sept. 9
This ensemble thriller takes the panicked outbreak of the Avian flu in 2009 and twists it into the realization of our worst nightmares. Steven Soderbergh directs.

Moneyball
(Columbia) Sept. 23
Baseball movie based on the Oakland A's general manager Billy Beane's groundbreaking methods for drafting team members.

Take comfort, ladies. Brad Pitt stars as Beane alongside previously plump Jonah Hill, Robin Wright and Phillip Seymour Hoffman.

Margin Call
(Lionsgate) Oct. 21
This thriller will likely capture the desperate atmosphere of the 2009 financial crisis in a way that Oliver Stone tried and failed at with Wall Street 2: Money Never Sleeps. More directly based on the crash, director J.C. Chandor's first film stars Zachary Quinto, Stanley Tucci and Kevin Spacey.

The Ides of March
(Columbia) Oct. 7th
Based on the play Farragut North, this political thriller depicts the manipulations behind the scenes of a presidential campaign loosely based on that of Howard Dean.

The hot factor is turned way up with Ryan Gosling and George Clooney starring.

Fall Movie Preview. Ripped from history books

▶ Johnny Depp, centre, stars in The Rum Diary.

Preview. Must see films

We selected a few films that we think will be this season's cream of the crop.

Drive
(FilmDistrict) Sept. 16th
The director of Bronson takes on this moody, noir-ish tale of a Hollywood stunt driver (Ryan Gosling) who does getaway car driving for criminals by night.

This is a must-see for film lovers.

The Skin I Live In
(Sony) Oct. 14
One of the most highly anticipated releases of the fall will be Pedro Almodovar's thriller about a demented plastic surgeon who experiments on a human subject.

Martha Marcy May Marlene
(Fox Searchlight) Oct. 21
This tale got a thumbs up from the festival circuit. We expect to be delightfully creeped out by the sad story of a woman experiencing post-traumatic stress after leaving a cult.

Melancholia
(Magnolia) Nov. 11
Director Lars Von Trier has been quoted as saying his latest work is his most hopeless film yet.

The last one he did was called Antichrist so, you figure it out.

Hollywood's next princess

Appearing in this fall's action-thriller Abduction, Lily Collins is proving her acting prowess with some major gigs Next up, Snow White

HEIDI PATALANO
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Maybe call her this year's Emma Roberts. As the daughter of artist Phil Collins, 22-year-old Lily Collins may have had an inside track to Hollywood stardom, (like Roberts, niece of Julia), but that doesn't mean her early success was unearned.

This fall, Collins will be appearing alongside Taylor Lautner in action-thriller Abduction (Sept. 23rd) and she's currently shooting one of two Snow White films due to hit theatres next year. She took a moment from the set of the Snow White, currently being shot in Montreal, to chat with Metro.

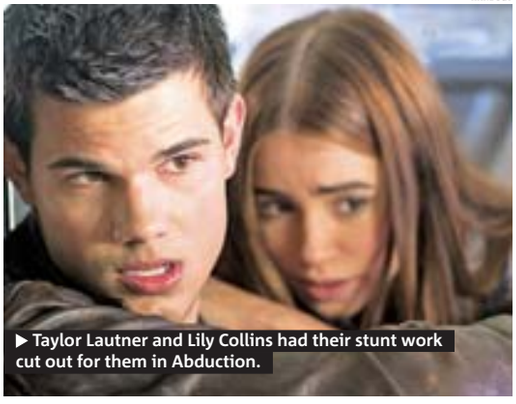
In Abduction you seem to be running from lots of explosions and fires. Did Taylor Lautner have any advice on how to approach the stunt work?

He seems to be quite fearless in life anyway. He'll just be standing and then all of a sudden he'll do a back flip because he can do that … He just jumps into things without being afraid so it kind of motivated me, with my lack of experience, to try to dive into it as well.

Tell us about shooting Snow White.

I've been in Montreal since the end of May. It's been long and grueling. Fencing and fight training and wearing costumes that weigh so much every day. It's a fairy tale every single moment and it's been incredible.

HANDOUT



▶ Taylor Lautner and Lily Collins had their stunt work cut out for them in Abduction.

How do you feel about the fact that there's another Snow White project being shot right now with Kristen Stewart in the same role?

I'm very aware of the other project and I've read the script and I know that they're so completely different. I am really excited for Kristen [Stewart]. I think she's perfect for that vision of Snow White. They couldn't be more different so it's actually kind of exciting.

Movie reviews

HG Lewis: The Godfather of Gore
Genre: Documentary
Director: Frank Henenlotter, Jimmy Maslon
Stars: Mal Arnold, John Bloom, Jerome Eden
●●●
It's a toss up who has created an ickier body of work, filmmaker Frank (Basketcase) Henenlotter or the subject of his latest film, gutslinger HG Lewis. Either way, Henenlotter freely admits he and so many others owe their red stained shirts to Lewis in the affectionate and entertaining flick that celebrates the Blood Feast director's sanguinary and slipshod body of work. Fun stuff.
CHRIS ALEXANDER

Wound
Genre: Horror
Director: David Blyth
Stars: Ian Mune, Katie O'Rourke, Te Kaea Beri
●●●●
Outside of the early gorefests of Peter Jackson, New Zealand isn't particularly notable for its horror films. But director David Blyth has been making bizarre pictures for over 30 years. His latest, Wound, is something of a skid row masterpiece, a feral, bloody and unforgettable portrait of a woman who is well beyond the verge of a nervous breakdown and spirals into a tailspin of murder and madness. Gritty, emotional and deeply upsetting, Wound is a serious example of the genre.

FINANCIAL ADVICE FOR STUDENTS

ISTOCKPHOTO/THINKSTOCK

HOW TO PAY THE LOWEST PRICE FOR HIGH TECH

DO YOUR HOMEWORK

Less than a month after Paul Lermitte's 18-year-old nephew, Scott, got a three-year contract for a cellphone, he lost the phone. Lermitte, a Vancouver-based financial planner who specializes in family business, advises the 20-year-olds he teaches in his day-long cash-management "boot camps" not to buy contracts until they graduate from college or university and get a full-time job.

"You might get a free phone with the contract, but if you lose or damage it, you have to buy a new one," says Lermitte. "It's better for students to buy a cheap phone and a cheap plan."

Whether students want to buy cellphones, computers, games or apps, the same principle to savvy spending applies: do your homework. "To find the best prices, research is key," says Lermitte. That means comparison shopping and figuring out what you can afford.

According to the experts, upfront planning is vital. "If students start looking at their finances well before the school year starts, it will save a lot of unpleasant surprises mid-semester," says Kavita Joshi, the director of student banking at RBC. That means first determining how much money they'll have to spend on fixed costs such as tuition, rent, food and bills, then calculating how much is left for high-tech gadgets and entertainment.

"Like everyone else, students must make choices about how they spend," says Joshi. "They can still treat themselves to things like games and apps, it's best to plan those purchases in advance so that they have money left over after their financial obligations to buy the things they want." HOW TO USE DEBT WISELY

- Only use your credit card for planned purchases, buying online or in case of emergency — not for impulse purchases.
- Pay your balance in full every month, if you can. If you can't, pay at least the minimum amount due. Otherwise, you may jeopardize your credit rating, which could affect your eligibility to borrow later in life — when you want to purchase a home, for example.
- If you find yourself carrying a balance at a high rate, consider switching to a lower-rate card and have a plan to pay down the balance.
- Don't have more cards than you need. Choose only one card with benefits that are useful to you. Extra cards in your wallet may tempt you to spend money you don't have, not to mention putting you at risk of theft or loss.

Mel, Oksana reach deal after two years in court

Agree not to write books about each other • Trust fund for daughter

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Oksana Grigorieva and Mel Gibson

After nearly two years of squabbles in the courtroom and the press, Mel Gibson and Oksana Grigorieva have reportedly reached a settlement in their custody battle over their one-year-old daughter, Lucia, according to Hollyscoop.

Gibson has agreed to pay Grigorieva $750,000, and will also set up a trust fund for Lucia, who will continue to live with her mother in the multi-million-dollar home Gibson pays for for until she turns 18, at which point the home will be sold and the proceeds will be placed in the trust. Also, neither Gibson nor Grigorieva are allowed to write books about each other, according to the settlement. METRO

Anthony: Divorce 'not a funeral'

Marc Anthony

Marc Anthony wants the world to know his divorce from Jennifer Lopez isn't that big of a deal. "I'll tell you that it wasn't something sensationalistic happening," Anthony tells Nightline.

"It was a realization on both our parts. So, you know, it wasn't shocking. These things happen. It was a decision that we made jointly." He also says people shouldn't feel too bad for him.

"This is not a funeral. This is not a burial," he says of his current situation. METRO

Downey to be a dad again

Robert Downey Jr. and his wife, producer Susan Downey, are expecting their first child together, according to Star magazine. "I think it's wonderful that she's pregnant," Nancy Miller, Susan's aunt, tells the magazine.

"The baby is due in February ... Her parents are over the moon about it."

Robert also has an 18-year-old son, Indio, from a previous marriage. METRO

A picnic finale

It's officially the last long weekend of summer Make it count with a picnic of Seafood Salad Rolls, Potato Salad and No Bake Peach Cheesecake

MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEWS CANADA

Both of these recipes make six servings and don't require much time to prepare.

Tired of the same old picnic food? These two recipes switch things up. The Potato Salad is grilled, while the Seafood Salad Rolls save you money by using imitation lobster.

Grilled Potato Salad Preparation:

1. Cut potatoes into 8 wedges each and place in bowl with red peppers. Add oil, basil, rosemary, salt and pepper and toss.

A storm brews in Bermuda

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA

Believe it or not, sometimes I travel without a liquid reason — well, sort of. As you read this, I'm hanging out in a small pub in Bermuda with a large cocktail in hand.

Though there are lots of opportunities to buy wine on the island, fermented grape juice is definitely not the national drink. That spot is reserved for an indigenous version of rum, which is deep and dark, yet very well-rounded.

Gosling's Black Seal (750 ml, $26.80 - $32.99) has been making magic from sugar cane since 1806 and you can't visit Bermuda without tasting the mixed drink madness that is a Dark 'n Stormy.

It's a simple combination of one and a half ounces of Gosling's Black and ginger beer (a soft drink with a much richer and sharper flavour than ginger ale). In a tall glass filled with ice, add the rum and top with the ginger beer. Garnish with a lemon or lime wedge if (like me) you like a touch of citrus.

It's a bright, spicy cocktail worthy of the British heritage of the island. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Sports in brief

The Titans and Chris Johnson have agreed to terms on a four-year contract extension ending the three-time Pro Bowl running back's holdout.

Tennessee confirmed Thursday the team had agreed to terms on the revised deal.

Johnson has led the NFL in yards rushing the past three seasons and refused to report to the camp without a new deal.

Lawrie and Johnson homer, Escobar gets 4 hits to lead Jays past Orioles

8	6
BLUE JAYS	ORIOLES

Brett Lawrie has been in the majors for a month, and the Baltimore Orioles already have seen enough of the kid from Canada.

Lawrie hit a tiebreaking two-run homer in the eighth inning, Yunel Escobar had his second straight four-hit game, and the Toronto Blue Jays defeated Baltimore 8-6 on Thursday.

Lawrie made his debut at Camden Yards on Aug. 5. Since that time, he leads all rookies in homers (seven), triples (four) and extra-base hits (17).

"Lawrie continues to play and swing the bat as good as you can expect," acting manager Don Wakamatsu said.

Given his .340 batting average, it's safe to say the Langley, B.C., native has exceeded expectations.

"No doubt," Wakamatsu said. "You can't sell him short."

Especially when facing Baltimore. Lawrie is batting .417 in six games against the Orioles, all at Camden Yards. In addition, three of his seven homers and eight of his 20 RBIs have come in Baltimore.

"It's a home away from home. It's where it all started," Lawrie said. "We'll be back here some day."

It will be too soon for the Orioles.

"He's a big ol' boy," Baltimore's Nick Markakis said. "He can swing the stick, no question about that. Their whole team can swing."

Kelly Johnson also homered for the Blue Jays, who had 26 runs and 42 hits in taking two of three at Camden Yards.

With the score six-all, Johnson drew a walk from Willie Eyre (1-1) and Lawrie followed with his seventh home run. Lawrie went 3 for 5 and scored twice.

Escobar was 4 for 5 with two RBIs. The four hits matched a career high.

Shawn Camp (2-3) finished the seventh inning, Jon Rauch worked a perfect eighth and Frank Francisco got three straight outs for his 12th save.

The defeat assured Baltimore (54-81) of a 14th straight non-winning season.

Foley regrets way he left the Lions

LIONS	ARGONAUTS

▶ Time: 7:30 p.m.
TV: TSN

Ricky Foley believes he made the right decision last year to leave the B.C. Lions and sign with the hometown Toronto Argonauts. But the native of Courtice, Ont., does regret the path he took to be closer to home.

Foley will face his former team for the first time Friday night when Toronto hosts B.C. at Rogers Centre. Foley and the Argos return Vancouver on Sept. 10 to complete the home-and-home series.

"I didn't handle it as professionally as I should have," Foley said. "There are a few things I would do differently and it won't happen again, put it that way."

The colourful defensive end had agreed to return to B.C. after being released by the NFL's New York Jets, with the Lions going so far as to issue a press release announcing Foley's return.

But Foley, 29, never did. Instead, the six-foot-two, 258-pound lineman visited with the Argos and signed with them Sept. 14 to cap what was, even by CFL standards, a truly bizarre situation. But Foley won't be out to prove anything Friday.

"I'm not any more hyped up for this game than any other," Foley said.

CFL drama ramps up for Labour Day

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

Why can't every weekend be like the CFL's Labour Day Weekend? Historic matchups, ramped-up rhetoric and festering feuds are just a few of the highlights packaged added to the games.

Most notable is the provincial rivalry in Alberta that sees Edmonton and Calgary square off for bragging rights, now with an added twist.

It seems that when the Esks got off to a 5-0 start this season, their marketing whizzes decided to buy ad space on the billboard outside Calgary's McMahon Stadium. Fair enough, except the giant ad shows an Eskimos fan in a Ricky Ray jersey shouting "EE-Hawww!" while riding the back of a Stamps follower, down on all four like a pack mule. Now the tables have turned, with Calgary (6-2) on a four-game win streak and the Eskimos looking for answers on a three-game skid.

It's not likely the Stampeders needed extra inspiration to lay a lickin' on the visiting Eskimos on Monday, yet the fuel arrived in living colour above the players' entrance to the stadium parking lot.

Now the Esks marketing department might have explaining to do come Tuesday morning.

The off-field stories are just as interesting elsewhere as the Winnipeg Blue Bombers travel to Regina to renew that annual Labour Day rivalry.

With the surprising Bombers owning the CFL's best record and the Swaggerville label, fans of both teams will compete to see who can be the most loud and obnoxious. In a new twist, the traditional Toronto-to-Hamilton game has been replaced by the Braley Bowl on Friday, in which the Argos will host the B.C. Lions Both teams owned by David Braley. Hamilton will host the Montreal Alouettes in a Monday matchup that's cleverly been dubbed the Labour Day Classique.

NFL fool's gold:
You can't blame CFL players for jumping at a shot at the NFL's bright lights and mega-paycheques, but rarely does it work out in their best interests.

Saskatchewan Roughriders receiver Andy Fantuz, the CFL's best pass catcher and top Canadian in 2010, couldn't resist exercising his option-year clause to accept an offer from the Chicago Bears to attend camp, despite a reportedly meagre signing bonus of just $5,000.

That alone should have indicated the Bears weren't very interested and now, after missing the first half of the CFL season, it looks like Fantuz will be back in Regina soon. He has been under-utilized in Chicago, getting just one pass thrown his way in his first pre-season appearance.

Stray Tiger-Cats:
After further review, Ivor Wynne Stadium isn't a fixer-upper after all and that's no surprise to anyone who's attended a game at the great old barn.

Nostalgic CFL fans might have been pleased to first learn the team and city planned to renovate the 80-year old gridiron temple. But now everyone's come to their senses and decided to build a new stadium on the original location immediately following the 2012 season. Problem is, where will the Tabbies call home in 2013?
